DIRTY DEWDNEY

Is in the Steal.

He Shows His Hand—It is Not Clean,

Would Shed Blood to Boom His Town
Lots.

Cowardice His Only Redeeming Quality.

The Edmonton Land Office is Still Open.

AND WILL REMAIN OPEN.

So Say Thompson, Ouimet, Loughheed,
Girard and Davin,

When the BULLETIN was issued on Monday, matters regarding the land office steal were in a decidedly ticklish condition, which was not relieved by the following telegram received late in the afternoon from the minister of interior:

To M. McCauley, Mayor.—In consequence of complaints from emigrants arriving on the South Side of the river, regarding the long distance from the railway station and the cost and inconvenience of ferriage necessary to reach the land office to make homestead entries, the agent was ordered to temporarily remove so much of the books and records as are required to give facilities at the station. Mounted police instructed to effect removal, and it is expected that the mayor and council will assist in maintaining order. Agent Anderson had nothing to do with the removal, which was decided upon solely for the public convenience and the public interests. E. Dewdney.

This telegram showed first that the minister of interior was a party to the steal, and therefore put a new face on the affair. At the same time it showed a weakening from the position taken by the lands agent, whose announcement handed to the BULLETIN for publication after the commencement of the trouble, on Saturday afternoon, specifically stated that "the timber and land office has been removed,"—not partially or temporarily, but entirely and permanently.

Besides the telegram from Dewdney, the following telegrams were received from N. F. Davin, M. P., and D. A. McPherson, of the interior department:

To M. McCauley, Mayor.—Land offices will not be removed. This only temporary for convenience of settlers. N. F. Davin.

To M. McCauley, Mayor.—Moving of office done by order of department of interior. Hon. Mr. Dewdney says it is temporary and that he has wired you explanatory. D. A. McPherson.

All this was satisfactory, but not definite, and it was decided that matters should remain as they were until something more definite had been received. In case the instructions to the mounted police, mentioned in the telegram, had been received, the alarm bells were rung and a crowd gathered at the land office to object to the removal if attempted. At the same time Mayor McCauley interviewed Superintendent Griesbach as to the preservation of order, and was assured that no attempt at removal would be made until more definite instructions had been received as to the portion of the records that were to be removed. On this assurance being given by the mayor to the crowd at the land office it dispersed quietly.

The following telegram was sent to Mr. Dewdney the same evening:

EDMONTON, June 20th.

To E. Dewdney.—Agent attempting removal all land and timber records and office furniture to South Side. If temporary office is opened there, agent will make same headquarters and nine-tenths of the population will have to cross the river to transact business with department. If temporary office is to be kept open have agent appoint sub-agent and have main office here. Instructions as received by Anderson were to move office. Town and whole northern country awaiting reply. Records and furniture still on wagons. M. McCauley, Mayor.

Another telegram was sent on Tuesday morning as follows:

EDMONTON, June 21.

To E. Dewdney.—Emigrant shed north side full. Sixteen immigrants want to make entry. About 300 farmers require hay permits. No office here to go to. Will government pay their expenses to South Side to make entry at temporary office. M. McCauley, Mayor.

The following was also received on Tuesday:

OTTAWA, June 20.

To His Honor the Mayor.—Removal only temporary. Permanent office shall be built on north side. J. A. Ouimet.

The police picket remained in charge during Tuesday, and as rain came on during the afternoon the police began putting the books under shelter in the office. Some watchful enthusiast saw the movement and mistaking its object gave the alarm. All the bells were rung and in eight minutes, by the watch, not less than 150 men were around the land office, with a hundred or two more coming as fast as they could. As it was a false alarm the crowd again quietly dispersed.

The following telegrams were received on Tuesday afternoon:

OTTAWA, June 21.

To M. McCauley.—Your telegram only received to-day. Dewdney assures me removal only temporary to allow present settlers on South Side to make entry, offices will then go back north side where permanent offices will be shortly built. James A. Loughheed.

OTTAWA, June 21.

To McCauley.—Timber and land agent have removed offices temporarily to south side of river for more facility to immigrants. Government favorably disposed to maintain its first decision about public buildings. Senator Girard.

REGINA, June 21.

To M. McCauley.—Following just received from Hon. Minister Public Works: "Ottawa—That removal temporary to facilitate entries on South side. New office shall be built on north side on chosen site. False alarm. Signed, J. Ald. Ouimet." J. Royal, Lieutenant-Governor.

REGINA, June 21.

To M. McCauley, J. Cameron.—Following telegram just received from Ottawa: "Moving at Edmonton done by order of department of interior who report that it is temporary and for immigrants' convenience of settlers. Signed, D. A. Macpherson." J. Royal, lieutenant-Governor.

On Wednesday forenoon the following telegrams were received:

OTTAWA, June 21.

To M. McCauley.—Information received here indicates mob violence prevents land business being transacted. Instructions sent agent which I trust will meet public requirements. E. Dewdney.

OTTAWA, June 21.

To M. McCauley.—Many arrangements department has made whole object has been public interest and convenience. E. Dewdney.

OTTAWA, June 22.

To M. McCauley.—Attention of government called by me yesterday to condition of things at Edmonton. Minister of Justice answered that land office would not be removed from Edmonton and that the only thing contemplated was to place an office on South Side for convenience of coming immigrants. Wilfrid Laurier.

In view of these assurances, there being no desire to interfere with the land business of the district or the establishment of a branch office in South Edmonton—when Inspector Piercy informed Mayor McCauley, at noon, that he had been instructed to proceed with the removal of such portion of the books as were necessary to the transaction of business there, no objection was made. At about one o'clock Inspector Piercy drove to the land office accompanied by four policemen. Agent Anderson, assistant agent Royal and forest ranger Johnstone, removed a portion of the books in the presence of the mayor and about 50 citizens. What books were taken and what left, of course, none but the officials could know. Johnstone, who was left in charge of the Edmonton office was asked if the books necessary to the transaction of business there had been taken. He mentioned one that had, and it was promptly returned. Before the books were taken away, agent Anderson announced that the Edmonton land office would be open as usual on Thursday morning, with forest ranger A. E. Johnstone in charge, and that all business could be transacted there as usual. Considered as a promise and in connection with the assurances received from Ottawa, this was good enough; and the books, the agent and the assistant agent, quietly rolled away and the citizens dispersed.

On Thursday morning at ten o'clock two settlers desirous of making entry went to the Edmonton land office, accompanied by Mayor McCauley and found agent Anderson in charge, re-arranging the office and ready and willing to receive entries, give information and transact business generally. Assistant agent Jules Royal was at the sub-office on the South Side.

The distribution of prizes will take place at the Convent of the Faithful Companions of Jesus, Edmonton, on the 29th inst., at 2 o'clock p.m. Kind invitation to parents and friends.

At the council meeting last night it was moved by C. F. Strang, seconded by J. Cameron, that the council as a committee of the whole wait on Mr. Gordon, inspector of land agencies, on his arrival at the railway station to ask for explanations regarding the attempted removal of the land office.

A MEETING was held in the Sturgeon school-house, on Monday evening last, at which it was decided to patronize a cheese factory to be started on D. Craig's farm, by Messrs. Doray & Boulais, of the St. Albert cheese factory. The factory will be in operation by July 1st. It is promised the milk of 150 cows.

BEES.

Thos. Henderson, of the Rabbit Hill, gives the following particulars regarding his experience in bee keeping during the past year. Mr. Henderson began keeping bees in 1888, and has been successful ever since. Last fall he put 29 hives in the bee cellar in the latter part of October and all lived through the winter; but since coming out in the spring five of the queens have died from unknown causes. The swarms thus left queenless were doubled with other swarms. The loss of queens has been the chief and indeed almost only difficulty with which Mr. Henderson has had to contend. There is abundance of bloom and a long honey season, and the amount required by the bees to winter on is very small. The hives were set out on April 20th this year and the bees began gathering honey at once and have continued ever since, except that they were interrupted by cold weather for about a week. Mr. Henderson numbers all his hives and weighs them in fall and spring to find out the quantity of honey consumed by the bees during the winter. The following is the weights in fall and spring respectively of the 29 hives: 105½ lbs—98 lbs; 86—78; 113—97, the queen of this swarm died in the spring; 124—107, queen died in spring; 79½—74; 68—63; 85—80; 80—71½; 104½—98, this swarm has given another swarm this season; 104½—98; 119½—110; 95—91; 95—87; 71—66; 110—99; 119—107; 85½—80, the queen of this swarm died in spring; 108—98, queen imported last year; 79—72; 75½—78; 108—98½, queen died; 89½—83½; 92½—86; 89½—85; 76—71, queen imported year before last; 100½—93; 100½—94; 91½—93; 102—96, queen died. From this it will be seen that the maximum consumption of honey, during the winter, was 17 lbs. Of two swarms which consumed respectively 17 and 16 pounds both queens died in spring. The swarm consuming the minimum of four pounds remained healthy throughout. A majority of the swarms required only from four to eight pounds of honey.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, JUNE, 25, 1892

THE LAND OFFICE.

No doubt the rights and wrongs of the events which have taken place at Edmonton since Saturday last will be very widely discussed, and no doubt those who corruptly attempted to use their official position to advance their own private interests to the inconvenience and loss of the general public will find plenty of lick spittle apologists, who will stop at no limit of defamation of this country or its people to draw attention from the acts of these corrupt officials—hogs, who look upon the government only as a swill factory, and who will squeal for or against anything, on the chance of thereby securing a greater share of swill. The removal of the land office was deliberately intended—or it was a side scheme. The removal was intended to be permanent—or it was only partial and temporary. It was for the public convenience—or it was to boom private property. If the decision to remove the office was arrived at, after full information and consideration, on the grounds of public interest; why the secret flitting? Did not the public interest and convenience and the welfare of the public service require that due notice of the removal should be given so that people who had business to transact on the north side could close it up before the office was removed; and did it not require that proper accommodation for the office should be provided before removal? Is it in the public interest to hawk books containing practically the titles to hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of land from an established office to a box car—to establish a perambulating land office? On the face of the affair, it is plain that there was no well considered intention on the part of the government; and as plain that it was what the people supposed, a side scheme put up by the local agent, the inspector of agencies and the minister of interior at the instigation of those very slick gentlemen, Osler, Hammond & Nanton, who trusted if they got away with the office quietly to be able to give sufficient reasons for keeping the town office closed. That the removal was intended to be entire and permanent the advertisement of the agent plainly shows. Either he had full authority to insert this notice or he had not. If he had, the minister of interior lies in his first telegram, when he says that only a partial removal was contemplated; or the agent exceeded his authority in his zeal for his own private interests, in which case he should be permitted to devote all his time to the advancement of those interests at his own expense. In what way the proposed removal was for the convenience of the public it is difficult to see, unless the Saskatchewan is the most extraordinary river in the world and has only one bank. If the majority of the people requiring to do business at the land office in getting wood and hay permits or making homestead entries resided or were homesteading on the the South Side the argument might be good but when as a matter of fact a large majority of those requiring wood and hay permits reside on the north side, where also the majority of homesteads are being taken, the argument is absolutely and entirely false. If the only business farmers had in life was to deal with the land office it might be a convenience to have the office on the side of the river on which they lived, but when they are compelled to come to town from time to time to sell their produce or purchase supplies it is very much more convenient for them to have the land office near the principal centre of business, no matter which side of the river it may be on, than to have it on any particular side. If it was only intended to establish a temporary branch office for the benefit of incoming settlers, would it not have been much more in order to have established one at Peace Hills, forty miles south, where there is a large influx of new settlers, rather than only two miles away from the existing office? It is amply evident that the convenience of new settlers or old was the smallest consideration affecting the proposed removal. There is only one reasonable reason and that is that it was attempted in order to boom Osler, Hammond & Nanton's town site. To enhance the value of town lots there by creating the impression that the government was about to repeat the Regina experiment and pour out hundreds of thousands in public buildings, to boom the property of a few men. They would like incoming settlers to believe that the south bank of the Saskatchewan river is the boundary, beyond which it would be useless to go. To belittle the extent, advantages and resources of the vast region to which Edmonton is the gateway, and of which it is the commercial centre. To this the people of Edmonton object, and it is in the interest of the whole country that their objections should be sustained.

MORINVILLE.

Rev. Mr. Morin left on Wednesday's train for Montreal to return in a few weeks with another colonist party of over 50 persons from the provinces of Quebec and Ontario and from the United States. Mr. Morin is a most energetic colonizer. Since he brought through his first colony, in March of 1891, one hundred and twelve homesteads have been taken by members of his parties in townships 55 and 56, ranges 25 and 26, where there was only a single ranch before that time. This settlement is called Morinville in honor of its founder, and a post-office of that name is shortly to be established on section 6, township 56, range 26, about 12 miles north of St. Albert. Besides the colonists brought through by Mr. Morin fifteen or twenty others have also taken homesteads. The tar springs recently discovered are located in this settlement, about sections 29 or 30, in township 56, range 26. Besides the settlement of Morinville, 28 of Mr. Morin's colonists have taken homesteads in St. Albert settlement and 14 at Fort Saskatchewan, north side. In all, since March '91, Mr. Morin has brought in 321 persons, of whom forty were from the States and the rest from Quebec, Ontario and Belgium. The new settlers have 435 acres under cultivation this season. A meeting of French speaking residents of St. Albert and Edmonton was held on Tuesday night to raise funds to enable Mr. Morin to open an emigration office in Montreal where samples of Edmonton products could be kept and information distributed.

EDMONTON CREAMERY.

A meeting was held at Poplar lake on June 10th to consider the question of establishing a creamery in the settlement. T. G. Hutchings, chairman; J. McDairmid, secretary. T. H. Ingram gave an exhaustive discourse on the method and system of making butter. He asked the meeting's opinion as to the most central place to build a creamery in this district. A. McLeod moved, seconded by J. Kennedy, that the farmers present agree to give Mr. Ingram 5c per pound for making butter, providing he builds a creamery in the district; this to cover all expenses. Carried. Nineteen farmers who were present promised the milk of 107 cows to Mr. Ingram's creamery, which is to be erected on section 14, township 54, range 24, opposite T. G. Hutchings' place. The construction of the creamery is to be begun at once, and butter making will begin on August 1st. Mr. Ingram intends, if possible, to run the creamery all winter. He has been promised an additional number of cows since the meeting. He also hopes to be able to start another creamery in the Sturgeon settlement in the spring and in other settlements as well. The business title will be The Edmonton Creameries Company.

Mayor Thomas, of Truro, Nova Scotia, brought suit against the speaker, sergeant-at-arms and twenty-two members of the local legislature, also against the detective and jailer for false imprisonment for alleged contempt of the legislative assembly. The assembly having passed an act specially exempting the officers mentioned, the case against them was dismissed; but in the case of the members of the legislature Thomas was awarded $200 damages. The legislature will appeal to the supreme court.

OTTAWA, June 22.

In the Commons on Tuesday night, before adjournment, Laurier enquired regarding the grave condition of things at Edmonton owing to the attempted removal of the land office. Thompson replied that no grave trouble existed. Instructions had been issued to remove certain records to the South Side to facilitate entries by settlers. There was no intention of removing the office. The trouble was created by a few people who were desirous of making a disturbance.

WINNIPEG, June 23.

Considerable interest manifested here in "bloodless rebellion" at Edmonton. Sympathy generally being with people against government and speculators. Hope expressed that North side won't surrender, but succeed in holding what they have. Few people here understand the situation and the press makes no comment.
